

THE KNESSET
MK Natan Sharansky

We all can well imagine the great happiness of a groom and bride on the day of their marriage. The wonderful mood and anticipation infuse the foundation of the couple's shared life with a special beginning and overflows to the extended family and friends as well.

And yet, there are those whose joy on this momentous day is marred. I am sure that you, dear generous friend, would want to do everything possible to bring happiness to a groom and bride on their wedding day.

A group of good-willed people joined together and started the Simchat Tzion / Libi B'Mizrah Organization, in an effort to help young couples who are facing difficulties in financing even a simple wedding. Some of these couples consider pushing off their wedding, or in the worst cases, even canceling their wedding, as a result of their monetary limitations.

The foundation is committed to trying to help orphans, terror victims, and grooms and brides dealing with extenuating circumstances. The weddings in question are simple weddings costing an average of $10 a portion.

If you have a generous heart and an able hand, with the will and ability to become a partner in this wonderful mitzvah, we encourage you to join the sponsors of Simchat Tzion / Libi B'Mizrah, and enable a young couple to celebrate their wedding in a simple, yet respectful manner. Your generosity will brighten the hearts of a groom and bride whose gratitude will be unending. To our understanding, there can be no greater feeling of satisfaction than becoming a part of this wonderful organization.
